

MAKING IT OUT

Making It Out helps people to move on from traumatic periods of their lives such as prison, addiction, mental health crises and homelessness.

To do this we create opportunities to engage in a range of creative & constructive activities including; visual art, carpentry, metal fabrication and computer aided design and manufacture.

MIO participants learn new skills, share existing talent and find new ways to define themselves based on what they are good at rather than what they have done in the past.

Please see makingitout.co.uk for details on referring to MIO.

“Having Making It Out to come to gives me so much structure to my week. To feel like I am supposed to be somewhere (for whatever reason) is amazing. You make me stronger as a person, you are helping me grow again.”

MIO Participant

Bognor Regis ‘Time Portal’

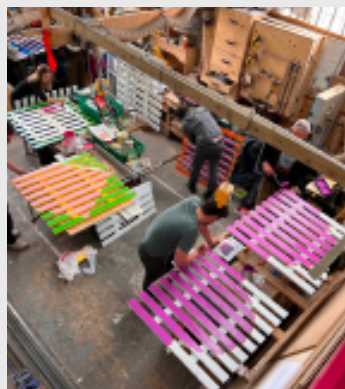

A gateway created for an augmented reality experience on the beach at Bogor Regis. Designed and fabricated in house by MIO

Creative output at MIO is varied and wide ranging, from larger pieces such as public artworks and bespoke shop fittings, through to series of art prints and a unique collection of artefacts for sale on our website.

MIO take on commissions alongside self initiated projects involving our participants in all stages of the projects.

We also run away days at our barns where local organisations can come and work 'on the tools' with MIO for the day to create something unique.

See makingitout.co.uk for more info and please contact admin@makingitout.co.uk for enquiries.

Our piece of Brighton

A 3D piece of graffiti in central Brighton designed in collaboration with local young people and fabricated in our workshop in Portslade.

MAKING IT OUT

Making it Out operates as a mixture between a support service and a design and manufacture business.

Participants start with MIO on voluntary placements and have opportunities to work on MIO projects alongside their own creative development.

MIO works with people with varied experience and ability with our overarching aim to increase their independence.

We do this through a mixture of skill development and support with broader needs including housing, job seeking etc. We encourage progression in line with individual circumstance and abilities.

If you think someone you work with would benefit from support from MIO...or you would like us to make something for you, please get in touch on the details below.
